Gardner Pro-Seal on Center Stage in Presidential Campaign

Product featured prominently in McCain campaign stop

MIAMI, FL—With Senator John McCain engaged in a whistle-stop tour of the Sunshine State, a golden pail of roof cement made a surprisingly prominent statement on stage with the presidential hopeful.

On October 29, 2008, the Miami Herald featured Senator McCain, Florida Governor Charlie Crist, US Representative Mel Martinez and others in a stop at Everglades Lumber in West Miami.

In the foreground (see below) a pail of Pro-Seal captures the glamour position with Sen. McCain stumping while fellow Republican leaders look on.

Presumably the photographer wanted to add a contrasting color to the blue skies and blue shirt worn by Sen. McCain.

The pail of Pro-Seal could not be contacted for comment; however, it does appear to be leaning slightly to the right in the photo.
